All voters of the State, without regard to past relation of those facts that are currently reported, of studying the news of the day to ascertain its importance, should be formed in youth before the opposite habitroof reading everything and remembering nothing—becomes firmly established."

No crrv in the country, probably, has had a more astonishing recent growth than Indianapolis, the population having risen from 50,000 in 1870 to 100,000 in 1870. But at the present time the city is sufficient the extremity of industrial declaration.

suffering the extremity of industrial depression-the darkest hour, says the Journal, since 1837. There is considerable want in the city, though little is said about it, and a citizens' relief committee has been formed to supply the necessities of the distressed. It is to be hoped that this stage will not be of long duration.

A curious petition has been presented in New York to set aside the will of the Stewart. The petitioner states that the testator, in his will, asserts that he left no blood relations, and this assertion he does not wish to leave undisputed. The petitioner goes on to say that he is a A Neat Little Acknowledgment he disayows any desire to make trouble in the hope that he may get pecuniary reward, but desires to stand properly before the world, he having frequently and with pride declared his relationship to Mr.

THE briskness of the export trade Baltimore at the present time is ver-marked. Its chief incident is the heav ness of the corn shipments, which in days past have amounted to nearly 60 000 bushels. Yesterday's exportation alone were a hundred and sixty-o thousand bushels, the largest shipm ever made in any one day. The petr leum exports since the 1st of June h. also been immense, aggregating more that three hundred and five thousand barrel The causes at the bottom of this grow of the commerce of Baltimore are in t main such as bid fair to be permane instead of temporary.

OUR MOUNDSVILLE LETTER.

MOUNDSVILLE, June 9, 1876. On school year closed yesterday with an exhibition in the evening by the pupils of the different rooms. The half was densely crowded and everything passed off very pleasantly. Excellent violin music with organ accompaniment lent additional charm to the exhibition and made it a very enjoyable occasion. Our next session opens on the

On the 22d of August the meeting of the State Teachers Association will be held here, for which such preparations will be made as will insure a grand time. Teachers and friends of education are not only expected, but cordially invited from all parts of the State. In a few days a programme of the order of exercises will be issued.

Our Centennial Committee is hard at work with a view of making the nations natal day the most memorable occasion in the history of our town. They seem determined that our celebration of the

The prospects continue favorable for a great gathering of our people on that day. Patriotism is not dead among us, although perhaps a little harder to arouse in these peaceful days than when war a stern alarm range through the land.

peareful days than when war's stern alarm rang through the land.

But few of our people talk of visiting the Centennial at Philadelphia at present, though it is altogether probable that quite a large number of our citizens would have availed themselves of a liberal reduction in railroad fares to have done so. The railroad companies will no doubt perceive that in assuming that all who contemplated visiting Philadelphia would do so, let the fare be what it might, they have made a great mistake, and counted too largely on the proverbial curiosity of the Yankee nation, very many who had made all arrangements to go having abandoned the idea.

I took advantage of a leisure hour this morning to walk around town, and must confess some surprise at the amount of
